

WasteAid partners with businesses with shared values

At WasteAid, we believe everyone has the right to live in a healthy environment.

We work in lower- and middle-income countries to implement safe and sustainable waste management programmes.

Our work improves the livelihoods of some of the poorest and most marginalised communities, promotes circular economy innovation and contributes to a cleaner and healthier future for all.

Thanks to our corporate partners, we are able to build recycling skills, nurture local innovations, reach new audiences, influence decision-makers, and share the benefits of sustainable waste management with thousands of people.
